- Aims for 2022 - 23

Hello and welcome to our curriculum newsletter, with a focus on Unicef, Rights for the child and British values. Here you will find out some important information, to help you keep up to date with all things related to Rights Respecting School and how we promote our British values.

Thank you for taking the time to read it and if you have any questions feel free to get in touch.

Mrs Gibson & Mr. Whelan

As a silver Rights Respecting School, we will be continuing to teach our children about their rights under the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child and will be helping them to grow into confident, caring, responsible young citizens both in school and in the wider community. As the children learn about their rights, they will learn the importance of being responsible and respectful individuals and the importance of respecting the rights of not only themselves, but the rights of others.

We are continuing to strive to achieve the Gold Award. In order to achieve this, we, as a school community, need to understand and embed the UN Convention on Rights of the Child.

Throughout the year, we will be continuing to introduce this into our school community. It is extremely important that children, parents and staff understand the importance of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child not only for themselves but how all children globally should also be able to enjoy their rights daily.

Please take the time to find out more by visiting the website, a link to which can be found below, and if you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me. Thank you for your continued support, it is very much appreciated.

ARTICLE 31 (leisure, play and culture)
Every child has the right to relax, play and take part in a wide range of cultural and artistic activities.

British Values

At Raddlebarn Primary, we take a whole school approach to British Values. The core values are embedded throughout the curriculum, using cross-circular links. Within planning across the school, our pupils will be building skills such as:

- Sharing their views and feelings through debates.
- Practicing mutual respect through our restorative behaviour approach.
- Learning about others faiths and beliefs driven by our R.E curriculum and celebrations through events.
- Assemblies and whole school events that promote British values.

As mentioned our British values are threaded throughout our curriculum. Across the school, pupils are producing work relating to topical and ethical issues, debating and offering solutions for change. With the aim to be change makers for our global goals for a more sustainable world.

Here is some of the work we have already done...

21/9/22 - International Day of Peace

26/9/22 - School Council Elections/House Captain elections

26/9/22 - Recycling week

October Black History Month.

10/10/22 - World Mental Health Day

11.11.22 - Remembrance Day

14.11.22 - Anti-bullying week.

18.11.22 - Children in Need

British values in the Curriculum

The fundamental British values.

- Democracy
- The rule of law
- Individual liberty
- Mutual respect for and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs, and for those without faith.

Promoting these values aims to prepare pupils for life in modern Britain. By developing their understanding of 'fundamental British values. These values help to form better social and emotion understanding between pupils. Here are some of the important learning taking place.

To be empathetic and respectful to others beliefs and differences, for a more harmonious world.

To understand their rights as a human being, learning to determine the difference between right and wrong.

For pupils to understand that they can be the change makers for the future, and that their voice matters.
